cloud this is the silver lining for example people can't figure out how old you are by the ages of your stepchildren or when they hug you you know it's genuine not out of habit you didn't have to agonize over whether to name your stepson after his grandfather his rich uncle or your favorite poet if you ever go ahead and have kids of your own you've had practice and if you are already a parent the trip to the warehouse club is finally worth the gas money your step teens will see to it that your younger kids are up on the latest cool music video games and cargo pants family counsel now has enough people for a house and a senate and with so many more participants there's a chance that you won't always get creamed at scrabble for centuries philosophers theologians moralists and ordinary people have asked how should we live what makes for a good life in the best things in life distinguished philosopher thomas hurka takes a fresh look at these perennial questions as they arise for us now in the 21st century should we value family over career how do we balance self interest and serving others what activities bring us the most joy while religion literature popular psychology and everyday wisdom all grapple with these questions philosophy more than anything else uses the tools of reason to make important distinctions cut away irrelevancies and distill these issues down to their essentials hurka argues that if we are to live a good life one thing we need to know is which activities and experiences will most likely lead us to happiness and which will keep us from it while also reminding us that happiness isn't the only thing that makes life good hurka explores many topics four types of good feeling and the limits of good feeling how we can improve our baseline level of happiness making more money it turns out isn't the answer which kinds of knowledge are most worth having the importance of achieving worthwhile goals the value of love and friendship and much more unlike many philosophers he stresses that there isn't just one good in life but many pleasure as epicurus argued is indeed one but knowledge as socrates contended is another as is achievement and while the great philosophers can help us understand what matters most in life hurka shows that we must ultimately decide for ourselves this delightfully accessible book offers timely guidance on answering the most important question any of us will ever ask how do we live a good life in therapists john and linda friel gave parents an easy to understand guide to overcome the seven worst mistakes even good parents make while raising children now they've written a book for teens based on the same formula it includes the seven worst things even smart and outwardly successful teens do and shows teens how they can change these behaviors and assure their success in life as they grow towards adulthood this book was written expressly for teenagers as a unique roadmap into adulthood it was designed to stimulate the brain as well as the heart because teenagers who listen to both can eventually negotiate adolescence successfully it will appeal to teenagers who like to think wonder question and challenge as well as to teenagers who feel that they haven't quite figured out this life thing the friels show teens the seven things they need to do in order to overcome common roadblocks they face or will face these are become competent don't expect to have self esteem without becoming competent master your feelings don't let your feelings run the show break the silence don't silently scream instead of making yourself known get healthy power don't avoid learning about power face the serious stuff don't hide the really important things you're experiencing find an identity don't avoid the struggle to find yourself learn to stake out the extremes don't live only in the extremes written in clear straightforward language and including many interesting and colorful story interludes this book is an easy to use powerful tool for all teens
