A History Of Christian Thought Paul Tillich Unpacking the Depth A History of Christian Thought Through the Lens of Paul Tillich Problem Understanding the vast and complex landscape of Christian theology can feel overwhelming Students theologians and even seasoned believers often struggle to navigate the centuries of evolving thought particularly when grappling with the profound contributions of influential figures like Paul Tillich The sheer volume of material and the oftendense academic language create a barrier to accessing and appreciating the richness of Tillichs work and its impact on modern Christian thought This leads to frustration a sense of incomprehension and a missed opportunity to engage with a crucial voice in 20thcentury theology Solution This blog post offers a clear concise and accessible journey through the key themes and contributions of Paul Tillich within the broader history of Christian thought By focusing on userfriendly language incorporating relevant examples and drawing upon up todate scholarship we aim to illuminate Tillichs theological system and its enduring relevance today Paul Tillich A Bridge Between Faith and Modernity Paul Tillich 18861965 stands as a towering figure in 20thcentury theology bridging the gap between the traditional Christian faith and the challenges posed by modern existentialism scientific advancements and societal shifts His work is not merely a historical artifact it continues to resonate deeply with contemporary concerns regarding meaning purpose and the search for ultimate reality Tillichs theological journey began in Germany steeped in the philosophical idealism of thinkers like Hegel and Schleiermacher He experienced firsthand the turmoil of World War I and the rise of Nazism profoundly shaping his theological perspective His subsequent emigration to the United States where he became a prominent figure at Union Theological Seminary exposed him to American pragmatism and the diversity of religious experiences within a pluralistic society This rich and varied background is reflected in his unique theological approach which transcends simplistic categorization Key Themes in Tillichs Theology 2 Understanding Tillichs contribution requires focusing on several key themes Theology of Culture Unlike many theologians who viewed culture as inherently separate or even opposed to faith Tillich saw culture as a vital arena where the divine is encountered and expressed He argued that religious symbols and myths even seemingly secular ideologies often contain glimpses of ultimate reality what he termed the God above God a concept that encapsulates the ultimate ground of being beyond any specific religious representation This approach helped him engage with the secular world without compromising his faith. Contemporary scholars like Jürgen Moltmann have built upon this perspective focusing on the intersection of theology and social justice. Method of Correlation: Tillich developed a unique method of correlation which aimed to bridge the gap between the existential questions of humanity (questions of anxiety, death, guilt, and meaning) and the answers provided by Christian faith. By connecting the human experience of these existential concerns with the Christian message, he sought to demonstrate the relevance of faith in the modern world. This remains a powerful tool for contextualizing theology for diverse audiences in the 21st century. The Nature of Being and God: Tillich redefined the concept of God, moving away from traditional anthropomorphic images towards a more nuanced understanding of God as the ground of being, the ultimate source and power of existence. This ground of being is not simply an object of religious belief but the very foundation of reality itself. This concept resonates with contemporary process theology, emphasizing God's ongoing involvement in the unfolding of the universe. The Courage to Be: This is perhaps Tillich's most well-known concept, emphasizing the importance of embracing one's existence with courage in the face of anxiety and despair. He saw this courage as a prerequisite for authentic faith, a faith that is not simply intellectual assent but a lived experience that transforms the individual and their engagement with the world. The practical implications of this concept continue to inspire pastoral care and spiritual guidance in contemporary settings. Jesus Christ as the New Being: Tillich viewed Jesus Christ not merely as a historical figure but as the ultimate expression of God's self-revelation. He saw Jesus as the New Being, demonstrating the possibilities of human existence in its fullness and overcoming the power of sin and death. This understanding of Christ's significance offers a fresh perspective on Christology relevant to contemporary theological debates. Tillich's Lasting Impact: 3. Tillich's influence extends far beyond academic circles. His work continues to inform contemporary theological discussions in areas like liberation theology, feminist theology, and ecological theology. His emphasis on the correlation between faith and culture provides a valuable framework for engaging with the complexities of a rapidly changing world. His theological insights, particularly his concepts of courage, the ground of being, and the method of correlation, remain strikingly relevant in our own time of uncertainty and searching. Conclusion: Paul Tillich's contributions to Christian thought are undeniably significant. His ability to synthesize diverse philosophical and theological traditions, coupled with his engagement with the existential challenges of modern life, makes his work both intellectually stimulating and deeply relevant. By understanding his key themes and their ongoing impact, we can gain a richer appreciation for the evolving landscape of Christian thought and its continued relevance in the 21st century. His legacy encourages us to grapple with our deepest anxieties to find courage in our faith and to seek the ground of being that sustains us all in recent years a growing number of new testament scholars have questioned traditional portrayals of the apostle paul as a leader of a new religious movement that set faith in christ in opposition to the jewish tradition instead they have stressed the need to interpret paul from within the judaism of his day regarding him as a faithful jew who cherished deeply his jewish identity and saw observance of the mosaic law or torah among jewish believers in christ as a good thing while the present work argues strongly in favor of this latter interpretation of paul it also seeks to delve deeper into his thought in order to explore at length the points of continuity and convergence between paul and the judaism's of his day as well as the beliefs that distinguished him from his fellow jews who did not share his faith in christ chief among these beliefs was the conviction that the identity and will of god were now to be defined primarily on the basis of his relation to jesus his son through whom he had intended from the start to accomplish his purposes for israel and the world yet rather than bringing paul to reject his jewish heritage this conviction led him to redefine and resignify around christ his understanding of judaism and the way of life prescribed in the torah thereby filling them with new meaning though he also continued to value and uphold them for the same reasons he had previously according to paul the purpose for which god had sent his son and delivered him up to death was not that he might atone for sins or make it possible for god to forgive sins as later christian thought came to affirm but rather that through him he might establish a new community in which jews and non jews would be brought to live together as one in fellowship and solidarity while paul expected his fellow jews to continue to live as jews and members of israel within this community which he called the ekklesiā his conviction that those non jews who lived faithfully as part of the same community yet did not submit fully to the mosaic law were equally acceptable and righteous in god's sight led him to oppose all attempts to impose on them the observance of that law such attempts implied that the members of the community who observed the law were to be regarded as more righteous or as superior in some way to those who did not and thus threatened to destroy the very fabric of the communities that paul had worked so hard to establish rather than running contrary to jewish thought paul's teaching that it was a life of faith rather than the observance of works of the law per se that led people to be accepted as righteous by god would have been regarded by most jews as being fully in accordance with traditional jewish belief what they would have found novel was paul s claim that faith in the god of israel was now to be equated with faith in jesus as his son or christ faith and that through such a faith non jews who did not observe the law could come to be as fully acceptable to god as those jews who did paul s redefinition of god and judaism around jesus as god s son would have led many of his fellow jews to conclude that he was proclaiming a god who was distinct from the god in whom the people of israel had believed from time immemorial since that god was never thought to have such a son and much less to have intended to exalt him to his right side as lord of all after handing him over to death on a cross from the perspective of paul and his fellow believers in christ however the god of israel and the god and father of jesus christ were one and the same understanding paul and his conversion to christianity is imperative for a thorough knowledge of the new testament in paul and the new perspective seyoon kim develops his argument that the origin of paul s gospel lies in two places his radical conversion at damascus and his usage of the jesus tradition in light of damascus this new way of looking at paul further explains how paul made strong distinctions between the spirit and the flesh law with further implications for his doctrine of justification a departure from the new perspective school represented by james d g dunn kim s paul and the new perspective offers a thorough and extensive argument for the foundation of the gospel that paul spread in the first century who was the real founder of christianity as it is known today jesus or paul what if any was the connection between them these and other questions about the two historical figures have occupied biblical scholars and the christian church for many years up to the present time this book proposes new ways of framing the questions as well as new approaches to answering them neither jesus nor paul spoke of a new world religion separate from judaism that would envelop the planet and last for millennia this study seeks to locate both figures in their respective places in the first century in jewish contexts and within the larger greco roman society the aim is to transcend the language and thought patterns of later generations of theologians in order to hear more clearly the prophetic voices of jesus and paul on their terms and in their social locations by so doing shillington lays the groundwork for a more authentic translation of their vision and mission into modern alternatives including better jewish christian relations to learn more about this book and the forthcoming online video or dvd series for small group study please visit jesusandpaulbeforechristianity.org
