dec 21 2009 is there a built in method for converting a date to a datetime in python for example getting the datetime for the midnight of the given date the opposite conversion is easy datetime where a date 2010 04 01 it will do the conversion for you but in my opinion it is less readable than explicitly converting to a datetime for the maintenance programmer that will come after you mar 19 2014 any index on the date will be useless and the engine will need to evaluate each row i am using mysql 5 6 and there is a date function to extract only the date part from date time so the new date gettime functionally equivalent to new date valueof date now functionally equivalent to the 2 methods above as mentioned in the comments and mdn links date now is not supported just giving a more up to date answer in case someone sees this old post adding utc false when converting to datetime will remove the timezone component and keep only the date in a datetime64
