this book assesses the quality of democracy in poland from the collapse of communism in 1989 up to the 2011 parliamentary election it presents an in depth empirically grounded study comparing two decades of democratic politics drawing on democratic theory and comparative politics the book puts forward an evaluation of democracy based on four dimensions representation participation competition and accountability the book is an important contribution to debates on the performance of the new democracies in central and eastern europe where some scholars argue that there is a democratic crisis that after a period of democratic progress most of these countries are experiencing democratic fatigue and that their democratic performance is poor however the polish case shows that democracy is not in crisis in fact the quality of democracy in poland has improved the book shows that democratic quality stems from good democratic institutions moreover the polish case shows useful lessons that can be learnt by democratic reformers in countries that are undergoing the transition to democracy or are aiming to consolidate their democratic systems it concludes that effective accountability good representation and stable competition are vital
