in this study an assessment model is developed to guide courts in deciding equal treatment cases such a model appears to be indispensable since relevant equality provisions often do not offer much guidance as to the assessment of unequal treatment this lack of guidance may lead to diverging approaches and outcomes which is undesirable from the perspective of equality and legal certainty the use of the assessment model developed in this study will improve judicial reasoning and enhance the legitimacy of equal treatment case law the general assessment model developed in this study is based on theoretical research after the standards that should be used in assessing cases against the principle of equal treatment supplemented by an elaborate comparative analysis of the equal treatment case law in various legal systems the result of this approach is the design of an assessment model that is both theoretically sound and workable in practice the dutch edition of this book has been awarded with the erasmus study prize 2003 the max van der stoel human rights prize and the constitutional law prize civics government and economics in action provides an engaging current and relevant look at the foundations of american government citizenship and the american economic and legal systems the program combines an accessible narrative and engaging visual design with a wide variety of instructional tools from workbooks to interactive technology to motivate students to participate make decisions and take action both in and out of the classroom master s thesis from the year 2008 in the subject environmental sciences grade passed assumption university of thailand college of internet distance education side school of business administration course master thesis project language english abstract this thesis presents a research project entitled a hypothetical enhanced renewable energy utilization ereu model for electricity generation in thailand this research is motivated by thailand s rapidly increasing electricity consumption caused by the country s long standing above average economic growth consequently the rising electricity demand can only be satisfied by continuously growing electricity imports and thus creating a significant burden to thailand s national budget further more thailand is heavily dependent on natural gas reserves for electricity generation however these are expected to be depleted within only three decades and global price levels for conventional fuels are increasingly volatile with an ascending tendency as well therefore thailand faces an urgent need to strategically plan for the broad utilization of domestic renewable energy resources which is essential for a more diversified and thus sustainable electricity generation as well as for the nation s endeavor to become an energy hub within the south east asian region under these circumstances this research conducts a comprehensive literature review regarding the past development as well as the current situation of renewable energy utilization in thailand which concludes in the identification of the importance of renewable energy in the given context and closes with both a distinctive need assessment and a conceptual framework for thailand's future renewable energy strategy subsequently the research introduces a unique primary research endeavor in the form of an explorative expert interview survey which succeeds in a substantial collection of qualitative and in depth data these valuable data is first objectively analyzed and second subjectively interpreted and summarized to become the major source for the derivation of a multitude of potential strategic recommendations for an enhanced future renewable energy utilization development in thailand finally the entirety of these recommended strategic approaches based on both the secondary and primary research are assembled to develop the enhanced renewable energy utilization model for electricity generation in thailand as the fundamental finding of this thesis and research project respectively
