play art or interactive art is becoming a central concept in the contemporary art world disrupting the traditional role of passive observance usually assumed by audiences allowing them active participation the work of play artists from carsten holler's test site at the tate modern to gabriel oroszco's ping pond table must be touched influenced and experienced the gallery goer is no longer a spectator but a co creator time to play explores the role of play as a central but neglected concept in aesthetics and a model for ground breaking modern and postmodern experiments that have intended to blur the boundary between art and life moving freely between disciplines katarzyna zimna links the theory and history of 20th and 21st century art with ideas developed within play game and leisure studies and the philosophical theories of kant gadamer and derrida to critically engage with current discussion on the role of the artist viewers curators and their spaces of encounter she combines a consideration of the philosophical implications of play with the examination of how it is actually used in modern and postmodern art looking at dada surrealism fluxus and relational aesthetics focusing mainly on process based art this bold book proposes a fresh approach reaching beyond classical cultural theories of play artists and critics explore the concept of real abstraction to help understand contemporary cultural production in the mind but not from there real abstraction and contemporary art considers how the marxian concept of real abstraction originally developed by alfred sohn rethel and recently updated by alberto toscano might help to define the economic social political and cultural complexities of our contemporary moment in doing so this volume brings together noted contemporary artists literary critics curators historians and social theorists who connect the concept of real abstraction with contemporary cultural production theoretical and artistic contributions from benjamin noys paul chan joao enxuto and erica love marina vishmidt sven lütticken and many others help to map out the relationship between political economy and artistic production in the realm of contemporary globalized cultural exchange this anthology places economic and social analyses alongside creative projects and visual essays to consider the many angles of contemporary art and how inquiry into the the production of abstraction through material and social processes can be used to better understand and hopefully change the conditions under which art is made seen and circulated today published in collaboration with name publications how is home grown contemporary art viewed within the middle east and is it understood differently outside the region what is liable to be lost when contemporary art from the middle east is transferred to international contexts and how can it be reclaimed this timely book tackles ongoing questions about how local perspectives on contemporary art from the middle east are defined and how these perspectives intersect with global art discourses inside leading figures from the middle eastern art world western art historians art theorists and museum curators discuss the historical and cultural circumstances which have shaped contemporary art from the middle east reflecting on recent exhibitions and curatorial projects and revealing how artists have struggled with the label of middle eastern artist chapters reflect on the fundamental methodologies of art history and cultural studies considering how relevant they are when studying contemporary art from the middle east and investigate the ways in which contemporary so called global theories impact on the making of art in the region drawing on their unique expertise the book s contributors offer completely new perspectives on the most recent cultural intellectual and socio political developments of contemporary art from the middle east in creative visions sociologist hannah wohl draws on more than one hundred interviews and two years of ethnographic research in the new york contemporary art market developing a sociological perspective on creativity through the analytic lens of judgment the artists she encountered range from those trying to land their first solo exhibition to those with several dozens of museum exhibitions she visited their studios and saw firsthand how they decided which works to leave unfinished or to destroy put into storage or exhibit she observed the installation of exhibitions in galleries assisted in selling artwork for a gallery and followed private collectors around art fairs and vip collector events moments of judgment whether by artists curators dealers or buyers led her to uncover that artistic practices are deeply sociological both because artists decisions are informed by their interactions with others and because artists decisions about their work affect the objects which circulate through the social world artists recognize that exhibitors and collectors prefer artists whom they deem to display a clear signature style wohl also explores judgment in art as part of the creative process evaluation she says is both a way that one judges how good a work is and how one makes decisions about producing work our understanding of creative work rests on these highly social dynamics wohl shows shedding new light on the production of cultural objects and prestige
