how should the church respond to the changing cultural and societal changes going on around it should it reject the historical traditions that served the early christian church or should it turn a blind eye to the changes happening in modern society neither as cassandra d carkuff williams advocates it should and it must recover and reclaim our foundations and reinterpret them in light of present day realities in learning the way reclaiming wisdom from the earliest christian communities williams suggests that the biggest problems facing the church today are the victim mentality created out of its own presumptions and that we have allowed our cultures and societies to dictate the way in which we lead our churches williams explores early christian communities and their practices in order to create principles for discipleship formation she then offers expert advice on how to approach modern day issues of christian education and the nurturing of disciples based on the examples set forth by our earliest forebears in the faith as williams states discipleship is a way of being grounded in vocation nurtured within community and guided by tradition this book provides an overview of the past in order that we might take the proven example and apply it toward our present and our future in this ground breaking contribution to the study of tourism and languages alison phipps examines what happens when tourists learn to speak other languages from ordering a coffee to following directions she argues for a new perception of the relationship between tourism and languages from one based on the acquisition of basic functional skills to one which sustains and even strengthens intercultural dialogue the twelve chapters comprising this book tell stories of the experience of learning and speaking tourist languages drawing on a range of disciplines alison phipps takes the reader on a journey through risk way finding mistakes laughter conversations and the imagination she provides rich descriptions of the world of language learning which has remained invisible to mainstream studies of language education existing as it does on the margins of educational life she shows how tourism is shaped by the learning experiences of everyday life languages she argues passionately fundamentally change the nature of perception dwelling and relationships to other people and the world this book will be essential reading for all those interested in tourism studies and in modern languages education it is a timely study coming at time of crisis in languages as english exerts its power as a world language and as a dominant language of tourism learning the arts of linguistic survival languaging tourism life will also be of interest to anthropologists linguists geographers sociologists and those studying education the articles in this special issue form three overlapping themes papers concerned with language development other aspects of cognition and interpersonal relations and personality the papers provide strong evidence of the importance of the study of individuals with neurodevelopmental genetic disorders for enhancing the understanding of the complex manner in which initial genetic differences impact on both behavior performance and processing strategies from infancy through adulthood much work remains to be done not only from a psychological or a biological perspective but most importantly from an integrated psychological biological perspective the hope is that these articles will motivate future studies informed by the genetic developmental approach both on williams syndrome and on other neurodevelopmental genetic disorders
