some 35 years ago i was somewhat precariously balanced in a drilling derrick aligning a whipstock into a directional hole in north holland by the stokenbury method and no doubt thinking to myself that i was at the very forefront of technology during the intervening period it has become obvious to many of us that some of the most significant technical advances in the oil business have been made in drilling and particularly in the fields of offshore and directional drilling it has also become apparent that the quality of the technical literature describing these advances has not kept pace with that of the advances themselves in many instances a particular glaring example of this has been in the field of directional drilling where a large literature gap has existed for many years i am delighted to see this gap now filled with the present volume by my friend tom inglis indeed it is only after reading his comprehensive book that i realise the extent of my own ignorance of the latest techniques of directional drilling and how desirable it was to have an authoritative text on the subject i feel sure that this volume will be welcomed by the industry and warmly recommend it to all who are in any way involved and interested in the fascinating world of drilling the religious heritage complex examines heritage making of christian related legacies led by secular and clerical institutions it argues that the relationship between public policies and spiritual practices is not as clear cut as some might think in fact the authors show that religious activity has always combined care for the past with conscious practices of heritage making which they term the religious heritage complex the book considers the ways patrimony religion and identity interact in different christian contexts worldwide and how religious objects and sites function as identity symbols it focuses on heritage making as a religious and material activity for the groups in charge of a sacred inheritance and considers heritage activities as one of the forms of spiritual renewal and transmission case studies explore various christian traditions located in europe the americas and africa investigating the longstanding and tightly enmeshed connections that weave together religion and cultural heritage through comparing ecclesiastical and civil heritage institutions this book allows us to consider the ambiguity of religious heritage
