this volume introduces readers to the achievements made in the context of china's reform and opening up it tells china's story with regard to twelve aspects the reform path opening up macro economy regional development the three rural policy poverty alleviation industrial development scientific and technological leadership ecological civilization human resources social security and income distribution on the one hand china's successes and lessons learned in this regard e.g. the establishment of special economic zones and pilot zones in advance followed by the implementation of regional development strategies can be condensed into a general sense of chinese wisdom on the other china's participation in economic globalization and global economic governance can serve as a role model helping developing countries overcome poverty and move towards modernization as china accounts for nearly one fifth of the world's total population the problems and difficulties that it faced at the beginning of reform and opening up are similar to those of many developing countries therefore it can provide valuable guidance for developing countries in the form of chinese wisdom and chinese approach this book examines us subnational engagement in foreign relations or paradiplomacy with china and taiwan from 1949 to 2020 as an alternative diplomatic history of the united states relations with divided china it offers an in depth chronological and thematic discussion of state and local communities responses to the china taiwan sovereignty conflict and their impact on us diplomacy the book explains why paradiplomacy matters not only in the low politics of economic and cultural cooperation but also in the high politics of diplomatic recognition presenting case studies of us states and cities developing policies towards divided china that paralleled clashed or aligned with those pursued by federal agencies it also identifies chinese and taiwanese objectives and strategies deployed when competing for us subnational ties conceptually the book builds upon constructivism redefining paradiplomacy as an institutional fact reflective of subnational identities and interests rather than as a subnational pursuit of foreign markets driven by objective economic forces featuring new empirical evidence and a novel conceptual framework for paradiplomacy the united states subnational relations with divided china will be a useful resource for students and scholars of us foreign policy the politics of china and taiwan paradiplomacy and international relations the first across the table negotiation between google and china concluded successfully in 2006 when google received a license to establish a local domain google.cn targeted at chinese internet users and not subject to the great firewall during these negotiations both google and the chinese government struggled to reach an outcome that would be acceptable to their constituents google was caught between pleasing its shareholders and preserving its reputation for free access to information while china was balancing the desire for cutting edge search technology and the concern that liberal access to information would undermine its political economic model this case study discusses this topic middle power responses to china's bri and america's indo pacific strategy brings together an international multidisciplinary group of leading experts to contribute a well rounded multifaceted view of the transformation that is currently taking place in the geopolitics of the asia pacific this book examines the interplay of two sets of policies the chinese government's policies to its borderlands and international relations it proposes a conceptual framework and argues that china's policymakers fail to make complete use of the opportunities in the borderlands for accomplishing foreign policymakers agenda to strengthen china's relations with other countries neighboring ones in particular as a result these foreign policies reflect the political elites inadequate consideration of the negative impact of these policies on the borderlands and underscore their worry for territorial disintegration therefore these policies center on the pursuit of central control through exercising administrative military coercion making the borderlands economically dependent standardizing the cultural identity and indoctrinating ccp defined ideology the challenges of the borderlands to the national integration are exaggerated so much that political elites pursued control and standardization at the expense of the identification of many people in borderlands with the regime china's international image and the relations with its neighbouring countries since the mid 1990s the chinese authorities have gradually come to embrace multilateralism to realize their basic foreign policy objectives in maintaining a peaceful international environment and enhancing china's international status and influence this the year 2009 marks the 30th anniversary of normalization of sino u.s relations over the past 30 years the bilateral relations have developed by twists and turns it is not until recent years that some stability and forward looking exchanges have returned to the central stage albeit tension grievances and mistrust continue to persist washington has encouraged china to become a responsible stakeholder in the world affairs while china has urged the u s to work with china to build a harmonious world both sides want to work together to solve their differences through dialogs and negotiations in the wake of the worldwide financial crisis of 2008 2009 china has contributed greatly in financing the crumbling u s financial market and lent a helping hand in stabilizing the world economy nevertheless the foundation of the relationship remains very fragile and the long term prospect for a constructive cooperative relationship is still full of uncertainties for many americans china s increasing global reach and growing political and economic influence constitute the greatest challenge to world dominance by the united states as a result some perceive china s rise as a threat to americans core national interests the recent changes in the global geostrategic landscape and economic interdependence have suggested that some new ideas factors conditions and elements are shaping the relations between the two countries the task of thirty years of china u s relations analytical approaches and contemporary issues is to explore these factors issues and challenges and their impact for the bilateral relations in the 21st century the authors have produced an outstanding book on economic reforms in china and india this book is a wealth of information on this crucial issue thus filling this important gap in the literature on economic reform and also adding more knowledge to the literature on the history of economic development processes in china and india this book will be of interest to both scholars of the economic reforms and those more generally interested in the social political changes occurring there tulus tambunan journal of asian business economists chai and roy have produced a well written properly documented study of the comparative development of india and china over the last 50 years the book will be useful to graduate students in asian studies and economic development policy makers in other developing countries can also benefit from this account of the experiences of two major emerging economies under different economic and political systems recommended graduate research and professional collections j s uppal choice recent acceleration of the indian economic growth rate from 6 to 8 per cent has sparked worldwide speculation that india is about to catch up with china and become another asian miracle economy economic reform in china and india examines this prospect reviewing the development strategies pursued by the two countries over the last 50 years in general and exploring recently introduced reform measures in particular the culmination of many years of research by specialists in these economies this book assesses the performance of china and india at both macro and sectoral levels including economic social political and environmental aspects it illustrates the reasons why china has outperformed india in the past and identifies the obstacles that india will face in its attempts to catch up with china providing solutions for china and india that can be applied to other developing countries this book will be invaluable for researchers academics and students focussing on economic development and asian studies it will also receive much attention from investors and government analysts interested in the strategic implications of the emergence of the two asian economic giants since the end of the world war ii nation states have formed regions to give them some protection from the processes of globalization and internationalization against this background the contributors consider the position of china in the processes of regional competitive interdependency this book offers analysis at three levels internal regional and global chapters consider china s position in regional post socialist associations such as the brics the shanghai cooperation organization sco the eur asian economic union eeu the silk road economic belt and the one belt one road obor contributors discuss how membership in these regional bodies is likely to enhance china s economic power strategic position and political importance a major theme addressed is whether these new powers will become complementary to the american led economic core countries or evolve as countervailing powers contributors suggest that linkages favored by china s regional associations are more network based and informal in character they are more in keeping with regionalization rather than regional blocs such as the european union which have locked in members to market driven institutions thus these new developments move away from a neo liberal market perspective and satisfy the needs of members to retain their economic and political sovereignty this book considers whether these new regional blocs led by china will perform a transformative process for the international order or become an alternative supplementary to but not replacing the existing institutions of the north an important topic is the relationship of russia and china to the central asian countries of the former ussr and the interaction between the russia led eur asian economic union and the chinese initiative of the silk road economic belt there is potential for the evolution of an alliance between china and russia against the neo liberal order led by the usa concurrently they bring out possible the tensions between russia s and china s conflicting interests over influence in central asia reactions to china s rise include the trump administration s movement from a multilateral to a bi lateral trade policy and the threat of discriminatory tariffs for china the contributors seek to promote a better appreciation of china s role in regional associations and the implications of contemporary developments in economic geo political and international political affairs in the 21st century to convey the image of a responsible power willing to contribute to regional stability and cooperation china has shifted from a single minded preference for bilateralism to an active participation in east asian regionalism in the recent decades this development has inspired discussions over whether a rising china could play a leadership role in building an institutionalized architecture for regional cooperation in east asia nevertheless this has not happened as east asian regional cooperation and relevant activities remain mostly ad hoc and informal especially when compared to regions such as europe to what extent has china contributed or constrained the development of regionalism in east asia what are china s desired roles and objectives in east asian regional cooperation what is the level of trust that other regional players have for china in regional cooperation this book seeks answers to these questions by exploring china s motivations and strategic calculations as well as its policy practices in east asian economic and security cooperation this book was published as a special issue of the journal of contemporary china china has developed sophisticated hedging strategies for managing the international petroleum market maintaining a favorable energy mix pursuing overseas equity oil production building a state owned tanker fleet and strategic petroleum reserve establishing cross border pipelines and diversifying its energy resources and routes though it cannot be secured china s energy security can be insured by marrying government concern with commercial initiatives this book identifies the interrelationship between security and profit that better describes china s energy security policy
