emerging iconographies of medieval rome examines the development of christian iconographies that had not yet established themselves as canonical images but which were being tried out in various ways in early christian rome this book focuses on four different iconographical forms that appeared in rome during the eighth and ninth centuries the anastasis the transfiguration the maria regina and the sickness of hezekiah all of which were labeled byzantine by major mid twentieth century scholars the trend has been to readily accede to the pronouncements of those prominent authors subjugating these rich images to a grand narrative that privileges the east and turns rome into an artistic backwater in this study annie montgomery labatt reacts against traditional scholarship which presents rome as merely an adjunct of the east it studies medieval images with formal and stylistic analyses in combination with use of the writings of the patristics and early medieval thinkers the experimentation and innovation in the christian iconographies of rome in the eighth and ninth centuries provides an affirmation of the artistic vibrancy of rome in the period before a divided east and west labatt revisits and revives a lost and forgotten rome not as a peripheral adjunct of the east but as a center of creativity and artistic innovation the last fifty years have seen a rediscovery of the role of the visual arts in the lives of all christians in tune with this ecumenical age this book shares the belief that beauty and art can bridge differences unite people in shared admiration and possibly become an instrument of communion among separated christians the authors of this book are catholic orthodox anglican and protestant artists scholars and clergy who in 2017 will take part in a symposium organized to commemorate the reformation which began when martin luther published his 95 theses in 1517 with sessions in paris strasburg florence new haven ct and orleans ma the symposium is promoted by catholic and protestant schools of theology together with mount tabor centre for art and spirituality in barga italy how the discovery of the rosetta stone led to new ways of thinking about language a brilliant new interpretation of major 19th century american writers j hillis miller the discovery of the rosetta stone and the subsequent decipherment of egyptian hieroglyphics captured the imaginations of nineteenth century american writers and provided a focal point for their speculations on the relationships between sign symbol language and meaning through fresh readings of classic works by emerson thoreau whitman poe hawthorne and melville john t irwin s american hieroglyphics examines the symbolic mode associated with the pictographs irwin demonstrates how american symbolist literature of the period was motivated by what he calls hieroglyphic doubling the use of pictographic expression as a medium of both expression and interpretation along the way he touches upon a wide range of topics that fascinated people of the day including the journey to the source of the Nile and ideas about the origin of language transfiguring women in late twentieth century japan feminists lesbians and girls comics artists and fans examines three dynamic and overlapping communities of women and adolescent girls who challenged japanese gender and sexual norms in the 1970s and 1980s these spheres encompassed activists in the ūman ribu women's liberation movement members of the rezubian lesbian community and artists and readers of queer shōjo manga girls comics individually and collectively they found the normative understanding of the category women untenable and worked to redefine and expand its meaning by transfiguring ideas images and practices selectively appropriated from the west they did so however while remaining firmly fixed on the local thus for many this ostensibly western focus was not a turn away from japan but integral to their understanding of being a woman within japan following broad historical overviews of the ūman ribu rezubian and queer shōjo manga spheres the book takes a deeper look through the lenses of terminology translation and travel to offer a window onto how acts of transfiguration reshaped what it meant to be a woman in japan the work draws on a vast archive that encompasses early twentieth century dictionaries sexology texts and literature postwar women's and men's magazines and pornography translated feminist and lesbian texts comics and animation and newsletters fanzines and other heretofore largely unexamined ephemera the volume's characterization of the era is also greatly enriched by interviews with more than sixty individuals transfiguring women in late twentieth century japan demonstrates that the transfiguration of western culture into something locally meaningful had tangible effects beyond newly re-created texts practices images and ideas within the ūman ribu rezubian and queer shōjo manga communities the individuals and groups involved were themselves transformed more broadly their efforts forged new understandings of women in japan creating space for a greater number of public roles not bound to being a mother or a wife as well as a greater diversity of gender and sexual expression that reached far beyond the japanese border
