this book offers a comprehensive analysis of the theological challenge presented by the new post brexit epoch the referendum vote for britain to leave the european union has led to a seismic shift in the ways in which parts of the british population view and judge their compatriots the subsequent rise in the reported number of racially motivated incidents and the climate of vilification and negativity directed at anyone not viewed as authentically british should be a matter of concern for all people the book is comprised of a series of essays that address varying aspects of what it means to be british and the ways in which churches in britain and the christian faith could and should respond to a rising tide of white english nationalism it is a provocative challenge to the all too often tolerated xenophobia as well as the paucity of response from many church leaders in the uk this critique is offered via the means of a prophetic postcolonial model of black theology that challenges the incipient sense of white entitlement and parochial nativism that pervaded much of the referendum debate the essays in this book challenge the church and wider society to ensure justice and equity for all not just a privileged sense of entitlement for some it will be of keen interest to any scholar of black political and liberation theology as well as those involved in cultural studies from a postcolonial perspective
