for most christians marriage is considered a sacrament created and uniquely blessed by god yet the theology of marriage rarely matches the actual experience marriage is too often a violent loveless institution and it is increasingly delayed avoided or terminated marriage after modernity offers new hope for christian marriage at a time of unprecedented social and theological change it provides an unreserved commendation of christian marriage reaffirming its status as a sacrament and institution of mutual self giving at the same time it breaks new ground it draws on earlier traditions of betrothal and informal marriage to accept some forms of pre marital cohabitation and provides a new defense of the link between marriage and procreation by sketching a theology of liberation for children chapters shed new light on divorce and legitimate theological grounds for the parting of the ways contraception and the question of whether marriage is a heterosexual institution particular attention is paid throughout the book to overcoming the androcentric bias of much christian thought and the distorting effect it has had on marriage marriage after modernity argues for a vision of marriage which does not abandon its history and which draws upon its premodern roots to grapple with our current social cultural and intellectual upheavals based on 100 years of social science research this book gives you reasons to believe in marriage in a society characterized by a lack of commitment this proven resource covers every issue that affects family life the third edition includes updates to all chapters and the inclusion of current research outdated models of chinese gender roles marriage and family transitions portray these changes as streamlined and unidirectional from traditional to modern public to private collective to individual chinese marriages in transition documents the complex nuanced and multidirectional nature of these cultural transformations using complex and large scale historical national data as well as comprehensive data from multiple countries xiaoling shu and jingjing chen demonstrate that while the second demographic transition is unfolding in many advanced western societies it is not necessarily a normative form of societal transition working instead from a framework of new familism shu and chen show that chinese new familism consists of both old and new values including the persistence of some traditional beliefs and practices accompanied by a transition to modern perceptions of gender and adaption to some modern forms of family formation this book is freely available in an open access edition thanks to tome toward an open monograph ecosystem a collaboration of the association of american universities the association of university presses and the association of research libraries and the generous support of the university of california davis learn more at the tome website available at openmonographs.org download the open access book here in landscapes of postmodernity a group of young scholars link key concepts of postmodern thought to our present everyday experience in which we change our identities on a regular basis while many of the essays look at less conventional modes of aesthetic representation computer games graphic novels telenovelas queer and animated films others analyze more canonical works following less conventional approaches either way the cultural and literary cartographies presented in this book allow america to be conceived as polymorphous or transnational celebrating a new american self that is aware and proud of its non anglo saxon origins this collection of articles presents the main contributions to the third lest louvain encounters in systematic theology conference held at the k u leuven s faculty of theology november 2001 its theme theology and conversation towards a relational theology continues the explorations in contemporary theology as set out in the 1997 lest i conference on the myriad christ betl 152 and in the 1999 lest ii conference on sacramental presence in postmodern context betl 160 in lest iii also the plurality and diversity of theological approaches play a major role and the question is raised whether the contemporary theological endeavour in a global world contains in itself the tools to respectfully and constructively approach this diversity the ideas of relation and conversation as found in the theologies of the trinity and of creation as presupposed in ecclesial praxis and as articulated in reflections that take their bearings from spiritual experience provide a powerful means for renewed theological reflection capable of confronting plurality and diversity in this book an international team of scholars examines both theoretical issues and the wide variety of legal developments in various countries based on extensive couple and individual interviews with young same sex couples who have legally formalized their relationships this book argues that same sex marriages as they are lived need to be understood in terms of interlinked developments in lesbian and gay life heterosexual relationships and in personal life extending the right to marry to same sex couples is frontpage news and hotly contested in both church and society this critical book is written by a gay man and progressive christian ethicist who places justice making at the heart of contemporary spirituality in dialogue with both legal scholars and theologians ellison examines the strengths and weaknesses of how marriage traditionalists advocates of same sex marriage and lbgt lesbian bisexual gay transgender critics of marriage analyze the issues and frame their arguments the book offers constructive proposals for revitalizing christian sexual ethics and moving the debate forward regardless of whether the right to marry is won or lost this thoughtful look at the state of marriage in america gets to the root of the criticisms of marriage and offers a biblical solution this is a brief review of an important text by one of the leading christian scholars of the family who is trying to reconcile traditional christian teachings on marriage and the troubling marital condition in the post modern west thatcher ultimately commends the traditional christian monogamous heterosexual permanent marriage citing scripture and various leading christian theologians of the present and past but he also offers creative new ways of thinking about engagements contracts non marital cohabitation premarital sex and more this text presents an ethnographic study of marriage practices in four cultures kung san chinese iroquois and tibetan the present volume invites the student to learn sociology by looking at her own formation as a human being growing up and living in a society that time incessantly shapes and organizes in a specific but ultimately predictable way instead of talking about society in the abstract we give it names our families our communities the filipino nation or the vast planet that we must share with the different nations of the world instead of talking about just anybody s biography we refer to one s own life long project of building and negotiating selfhood as ongoing achievements subject to the blind imprints of the past the contingencies of the present and our individual collective strivings for a better future the discourse of nationhood and social responsibility pervades every area of philippine social science the filipino nation is unfinished business and therefore it is understandable that in public discourse the nation s needs take moral precedence over individual fulfillment thus the book takes up the troubled quest of the modern filipino for autonomy and meaning in the bosom of his own society a young nation that is itself aspiring to grown into full modern nationhood in a globalized and some say postmodern era from the introduction

we live in a culture which has broadly rejected the possibility of absolute belief in one overriding truth and yet we are surrounded by people who do believe who indeed are often intensely religious but believe in different things this fragmentation of culture is a challenge to all major religions given that we have to live together and given that many of our starting points are the same even if our interpretations are different how do we cope with the practical day to day task of living and thriving in the same socio political environment this key postmodern dilemma is addressed in this valuable collection of essays by all international team of writers in a postmodern age can we believe at all if we accept that we are no longer unique where does that leave christian spirituality british south african and jewish writers explore ways in which the question of religion impacts on political life in britain south africa and israel the author presents a two tiered analysis that views postmodern legal thought as both a collective intellectual movement and as the work of particular theorists notably friedrich nietzsche michel foucault jacques derrida francois lyotard and richard rorty he concludes that even though postmodern thought does not give rise to a normative theory of right that can be used as a framework for deciding cases it can focus attention on genealogy and discourse and can empower those who have been denied a voice in the legal system annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or part of the major problems in american history series this text for courses in family history or history of childhood balances its discussion of marriage and gender relations with coverage on children and childhood offering a thorough treatment of race ethnicity and class from colonial times to the present this edition grants sustained attention to native americans and latinos relating history to larger political events the text narrative balances coverage of public policy toward families with coverage of the experiences of family life
