listening in a second language is challenge for students and teachers alike this book provides a personal account of an action research intervention involving listening strategy instruction that investigated the viability of this innovative pedagogy in the Japanese university context

This text integrates the theory and practice of learner based assessment written in response to two recent movements in language teaching learner centered teaching and a renewed interest in authenticity in language testing. It examines the relationship between the language learner and language assessment processes and promotes approaches to assessment that involve the learner in the testing process. Particular attention is given to issues of reliability and validity grounded in current pedagogical applications of authentic assessment measures. This volume is intended for and eminently accessible to classroom teachers and program directors looking for ways to include their students in the evaluation process. Graduate students and professional language testers seeking authenticity in assessment and desiring to create more interactive evaluation tools

Librarianship is both an art and a science. Librarians study the science of information and how to work with clients to help them find solutions to their information needs. They also learn quickly that there is an art to working with people to finding the answers to tough questions using the resources available and knowing which information resources to use to find the information being sought in short order. But what technical skills do librarians need to be successful in the future? How can library managers best develop their staffs for success? Developing librarian competencies for the digital age explores questions such as: What is the composition of a modern library collection? Will that collection look different in the future? What are the information sources and how do we manage those? What are the technical skills needed for a 21st century librarian? How will reference services change and adapt to embrace new ways to interact with library patrons or clients? What kinds of library skills are needed for the librarian of today to grow and thrive now and into the future? How will service models change to existing clients and how will the model change going into the future of librarianship? What kinds of budgeting challenges are there for libraries and the administrators who oversee these libraries? What do the library professional organizations see as the core skills needed for new graduates and those practicing in the profession going into the future? In answering those questions, the book identifies specific digital skills needed for success, ways of developing those skills, and ways of assessing them.

The main focus of this volume is test development and accreditation requirements and needs. One of the major objectives here is to show the key aspects of the application of assessment in higher education and the systems of accreditation. Thanks to its unique perspective, it offers a different approach on various aspects of second language assessment as universities are one of the best arenas for the analysis of language testing the book thoroughly prepares higher education teachers to apply pilot studies and shows students responses to new testing techniques and accreditation requirements it offers an enlightening guide for scholars with an academic interest in acquiring the basic principles of language testing and accreditation providing real cases of how new ways of testing and accreditation can be useful to second language teachers and students readers will not only come to understand how to use new testing strategies but also have the opportunity to see that the proposals described in each chapter may be useful to language assessment and motivation of students interactions mosaic silver edition is a fully integrated academic skills series that combines the best of print with the convenience of digital delivery language proficiencies are articulated from the beginning through advanced levels within each of the four language skill strands chapter themes articulate across the four strands to systematically recycle content vocabulary and grammar
