this volume provides a broad cross section of merton s work as an essayist collecting pieces that are characteristic examples of his astonishing output and the fantastic breadth of his interests the essays range from the wisdom of the desert fathers to the novels of Faulkner and Camus from interreligious dialogue to racial justice

Thomas Merton recognized the value and possibility of contemplative dialogue between monastics and contemplatives of other religious traditions and hoped that through such dialogue monastics would strive for inter-monastic communion and a bonding of the broader spiritual family. He held out hope that this bond would demonstrate the fundamental unity of humanity to a world that was becoming ever more materialistic and divided among other themes and topics. This book explores Thomas Merton's role as a pioneer of Buddhist-Christian dialogue and monastic interreligious dialogue. It delves into the process of Merton's self-transformation through contemplative experiences, explores his encounter with Zen and Tibetan Buddhists, and his pioneering engagements in Buddhist-Christian dialogue. It presents and responds to the criticisms of those who raise questions about Merton's understanding of Buddhism. Fr. Jaechan Anselmo Park OSB articulates and analyzes the influences of Buddhist theory and practice on Thomas Merton's contemplative spirituality and shows how Merton's legacy has influenced and continues to inspire interreligious and inter-monastic dialogue, particularly in an Asian monastic context.

Thinking is a dynamic process resulting from practices of integration. Thought encounters in openness, wonder, receptivity, and contemplation confer upon us intellectual work that is uniquely our own. Digital patterns, however, distract us from these creative encounters; our intellectual searching is weakened and fragmented by frenetic consumption of information. We miss out on reason's innate pull toward integration and concrete reality. This book is an invitation to enter into openness, wonder, receptivity, and contemplation with deeper understanding and intentionality. We can do this by considering exemplars: persons who lived out the integrity of their hard-won beliefs. Each process of integration is applied also so that practical knowledge and practice become a way into this intellectual restoration. We need deeper knowledge won in the slow orbit of encounters. Encounters in thought are precisely what each generation needs to apprehend the cosmos, nature, authority, truth, and moral action. Responsibility to this ecologic age requires a reform of reason. This book is just one attempt to convey a way toward this restoration.

An appreciation in journal form of Thomas Merton as spiritual writer, monk, and poet.

This collection of essays discusses the human relationship with and responsibilities toward the natural environment from the perspective of religions and the social sciences. The chapters examine a variety of conditions that have contributed to the contemporary environmental crisis including abuse of power economic greed industrialization deforestation and unplanned waste management they then discuss concepts from several different religious texts and traditions that promote environmental protection as a sacred moral duty for all humanity religious concepts such as dharma duty toward mother earth tikkun olam repair of the world khalifa people as deputies of god on earth amanah the universe as a trust in human hands and paticca samuppada dependent co arising are employed to argue that all the components of the biosphere are integral to the cosmos each piece with its own value and role in the harmony of the whole the book makes it clear that religions can become more green and play a helpful role in raising our ecological consciousness and supporting preservation of the environment into the future the contributors to this collection come from disparate fields such as theology literature studies political science and communication studies and are guided by a commitment to consider what we can learn from camus as opposed to where he was wrong or misguided in his life and writing if there is a place to consider the shortcomings of a human being especially one as unique as albert camus it will not be found within this volume the essays in this text are built around the theme that albert camus functions as an implicit philosopher of communication with deep ethical commitments the title creating albert camus is intended to have a double meaning first are those voices who inspired camus and helped create his ideas second are those scholars working with camus s thoughts during and after his life who help create his enduring legacy bringing together scholars who embrace an appreciation of the philosophy of communication provide an opportunity to further situate the work of camus within the communication discipline this new project explores the communicative implications of camus s work this book explores the catholic church s engagement with science and technology in the twentieth century by focusing on the important role of four prominent catholic intellectuals representing the diverse intellectual currents of their generation the book unpacks both the challenges and rewards of pursuing such efforts between the modernist crisis and the second vatican council this study of these intellectuals suggests how the church moved from conflict to dialogue in its relationship with science and technology with the publication of this book an ever wider audience may more fully appreciate the range of the poet s technique the scope of his concerns and the humaneness of his vision back cover
