Measured Words explores the rich commerce between computation and writing that proliferated in fifteenth and sixteenth century Italy. In this captivating and generously illustrated work, Arielle Saiber studies the relationship between number, shape, and the written word in the works of four exceptional thinkers of the time: Leon Battista Alberti, Luca Pacioli, Niccolò Tartaglia, and Giambattista della Porta. Although these Renaissance humanists came from different social classes and practised the mathematical and literary arts at varying levels of sophistication, they were all guided by a sense that there exist deep ontological and epistemological bonds between computational and verbal thinking and production. Their shared view that a network or continuity exists between the literary arts and mathematics yielded extraordinary results: from Alberti's treatise on cryptography and Pacioli's design calculations for the Roman alphabet to Tartaglia's poetic solutions of cubic equations and della Porta's dramatic applications of geometry. Through lively, cogent analysis of these and other related texts of the period, Measured Words presents literally and figuratively brilliant examples of what interdisciplinary work can offer us.

Using an appealing visual layout, Soluzioni explains the major topics of Italian grammar in clear and concise language. Real language examples and plenty of varied and imaginative exercises show how grammar works in practice. This new edition includes tables and charts for easy navigation and at a glance comprehension. Authentic material from Italian media and literature showing grammar in context, graded practice exercises with answers so learners can review their progress, free interactive exercises and weblinks on routledge.com/cw/rome. This second edition has been fully revised and updated with new examples and even more on contemporary usage, making this the clearest and most comprehensive pedagogical grammar available.

The series is a platform for contributions of all kinds to this rapidly developing field. General problems are studied from the perspective of individual languages, language families, language groups, or language samples. Conclusions are the result of a deepened study of empirical data. Special emphasis is given to little-known languages whose analysis may shed new light on long-standing problems in general linguistics.
