civilians are increasingly playing crucial roles in the conduct of military operations this book looks at different forms of civilian participation in armed conflict examining the pressure this disruptive practice places on the traditional laws of war in international humanitarian law ihl the principle of distinction delineates the difference between the civilian and the combatant and it safeguards the former from being intentionally targeted in armed conflicts this monograph explores the way in which the idea of distinction circulates within and beyond ihl taking a bottom up approach the multi sited study follows distinction across three realms the kinetic realm where distinction is in motion in south sudan the pedagogical realm where distinction is taught in civil military training spaces in europe and the intellectual realm where distinction is formulated and adjudicated in geneva and the hague directing attention to international humanitarian actors the book shows that these actors seize upon signifiers of civilianness in everyday practice to safeguard their civilian status and to deflect any qualities of combatantness that might affix to them humanitarian actors strive to distinguish themselves from other international actors in their midst the latter include peacekeepers working for the un mission in south sudan unmiss and soldiers who deploy with nato missions crucially some of the distinctions enacted cut along civilian civilian lines suggesting that humanitarian actors are longing for something more than civilian status the civilian plus this special status presents a paradox the appeal to the civilian plus undermines general civilian protection yet as the civilian ideal becomes increasingly beleaguered a special civilian status appears ever more desirable however disruptive these practices may be to the principle of distinction in ihl the monograph emphasizes that even at the most normative level there is no bright line distinction to be found the conduct of warfare is constantly shaped by new forces that create complexities in the battlespace for military operations this inaugural volume of the lieber studies series seeks to address several issues in the confluence of law and armed conflict featuring chapters from world class scholars policymakers and other government officials military and civilian legal practitioners and other thought leaders who examine the role of the law of armed conflict in current and future armed conflicts around the world
