this book is a portrait of the period when modern art became contemporary art it explores how and why writers and artists in australia argued over the idea of a distinctively australian modern and then postmodern art from 1962 the date of publication of a foundational book australian painting 1788 1960 up to 1988 the year of the australian bicentennial across nine chapters about art exhibitions curators and critics this book describes the shift from modern art to contemporary art through the successive attempts to define a place in the world for australian art but by 1988 australian art looked less and less like a viable tradition inside which to interpret our art instead vast gaps appeared since mostly male and often older white writers had limited their horizons to white australia alone national stories by white men like borders had less and less explanatory value underneath this a perplexing subject remained the absence of aboriginal art in understanding what australian art was during the period that established the idea of a distinctive australian modern and then contemporary art this book reflects on why the embrace of aboriginal art was so late in art museums and histories of australian art arguing that this was because it was not part of a national story dominated by colonial then neo colonial dependency it is important reading for all scholars of both global and australian art and for curators and artists approaching romanian literature as world literature this book is a critical theoretical manifesto that places its object at the crossroads of empires regions and influences and draws conclusions whose relevance extends beyond the romanian romance and east european cultural systems this intersectional revisiting of romanian literature is organized into three parts opening with a fresh look at the literary ideology of romania s national poet mihai eminescu part i dwells primarily on literary cultural history as process and discipline here the focus is on cross cultural mimesis the role of strategic imitation in the production of a distinct literature in modern romania and the shortcomings marking traditional literary historiography s handling of these issues part ii examines the ethno linguistic and territorial complexity of romanian literatures or romanian literature in the plural part iii takes up the trans systemic rise of romanian jewish romanian and romanian european avant garde and modernism socialist realism exile and émigré literature and translation these essays attempt to confront the effect of years of postmodernity and its promotion of individuality at the cost of solidarity and communal spirit in the wake of this it suggests possible frameworks for an art study that restores a certain focus on communal spirit it proposes too that art study s fragile position in contemporary society is a consequence of over commercialisation and its resultant surface values consumerist and corporate ideology encourage the consumer individual s self realisation seemingly divorced from communal interests within this isolation lies the potential breakdown of ethics therefore i dream of a kinder society i e one where we are engaged in realising the community as its citizens this is not blind obedience but in a spirit of contributing to a whole society more specifically it means allowing and to a degree maintaining art study as a sphere of possibilities for budding citizen artists it is envisaging art study as a discursive arena and creating an academic space that allows for art s main contribution the dislodging of the so called proper i e entrenched doctrine i believe that art study can contribute to the improving of society in the main because art enacts a different sharing of the sensible this study looks at the complex relationship between postmodernism and the fantastic in contemporary british fiction and shows that a new type of the fantastic arises in postmodernism arguing against interpretations that view postmodernism as inherently fantastic it seeks to define the postmodern fantastic as a narrative mode that is influenced by certain traits both of the traditional fantastic and of literary postmodernism but does not simply conflate both in the first theoretical part a number of theories of the fantastic and of postmodernism are used to set the fantastic apart from other non mimetic forms of literature and to create a model of the postmodern fantastic that postulates the totalisation of the fantastic in postmodernism in the second part of this study this model is applied to a number of contemporary british texts which are particularly susceptible to this form of the fantastic due to several characteristics such as their muted kind of postmodernism and their frequent construction of parallel worlds the analysis of these texts focuses on four thematic fields of the postmodern fantastic the figure of the other as defined by bernhard waldenfels time and history text and textuality and the development of the todorovian pure fantastic finally the question of the death of the fantastic in postmodernism is examined the term modernism is central to any discussion of twentieth century literature and critical theory astradur eysteinsson here maintains that the concept of modernism does not emerge directly from the literature it subsumes but is in fact a product of critical practices relating to nontraditional literature intervening in these practices and correlating them with modernist works and with modern literary theory eysteinsson undertakes a comprehensive reexamination of the idea of modernism eysteinsson critically explores various manifestations of modernism in a rich array of american british and european literature criticism and theory he first examines many modernist paradigms detecting in them a conflict between modernism s culturally subversive potential and its relatively conservative status as a formalist project he then considers these paradigms as interpretations and fabrications of literary history seen in this light modernism both signals a historical change on the literary scene and implies the context of that change laden with the implications of tradition and modernity modernism fills its major function that of highlighting and defining the complex relations between history and postrealist literature eysteinsson focuses on the ways in which the concept of modernism directs our understanding of literature and literary history and influences our judgment of experimental and postrealist works in literature and art he discusses in detail the relation of modernism to the key concepts postmodernism the avant garde and realism enacting a crisis of subject and reference modernism is not so much a form of discourse he asserts as its interruption a possible other modernity that reveals critical aspects of our social and linguistic experience in western culture comparatists literary theorists cultural historians and others interested in twentieth century literature and art will profit from this provocative book postmodernism became the buzzword of contemporary society in the 1990s yet even now it still remains confusing and baffling in its variety of defiinitions contexts and associations beginning postmodernism aims to offer clear accessible and step by step introductions to postmodernism across a wide range of subjects it encourages readers to explore how the debates about postmodernism have emerged from basic philosophical and cultural ideas and to develop comparative connections and ideas from one area to another with its emphasis firmly on postmodernism in practice the book contains questions designed to help readers understand and reflect upon a variety of positions within the following areas of contemporary culture philosophy and cultural theory architecture and concepts of space visual art sculpture and material culture popular culture and music film video and television and the social sciences
