this collection explores topical and current issues in indigenous african language literature of south africa these include narratological elements of literature language usage poetry analysis and song lyrics each scholar presents findings that are particular to their research thus making the book a valuable source of knowledge penned in a diversity of writing styles across different literary genres seventy per cent of the chapters are written in english and thirty per cent in isizulu a gesture towards encouraging research presentations in indigenous languages also of interest is that the chapter content covers traditional or largely obsolete forms such as folklore and essays print edition not for sale in sub saharan africa the sixteen essays in writing off the hyphen approach the literature of the puerto rican diaspora from current theoretical positions with provocative and insightful results the authors analyze how the diasporic experience of puerto ricans is played out in the context of class race gender and sexuality and how other themes emerging from postcolonialism and postmodernism come into play their critical work also demonstrates an understanding of how the process of migration and the relations between puerto rico and the united states complicate notions of cultural and national identity as writers confront their bilingual bicultural and transnational realities the collection has considerable breadth and depth it covers earlier undertheorized writers such as luisa capetillo pedro juan labarthe bernardo vega pura belpré arturo schomburg and graciany miranda archilla prominent writers such as rosario ferré and judith ortiz cofer are discussed alongside often neglected writers such as honolulu based rodney morales and gay writer manuel ramos otero the essays cover all the genres and demonstrate that current theoretical ideas and approaches create exciting opportunities and possibilities for the study of puerto rican diasporic literature about the book this is a collection of essays on fiction written in english spanish and bengali that has emerged recently this fiction is seen to reflect biculturalism that is the amalgam of two cultures that are both hegemonic in their own ways this approach provides insight into the works discussed by uncovering elements of the the seemingly other non euroculture and elevates both cultures to the same level authors discussed in the essays include black british caryl phillips chicana sandra cisneros chinese american maxine hong kingston cuban american dolores prida danish izak dinesen greek americans nikos papandreou and catherine temma davidson kenyan ngugi wa thiong'o japanese american john okada new zeander patricia grace peruvian josé bilingual texts have been left outside the mainstream of both translation theory and literary history yet the tradition of the bilingual writer moving between different sign systems and audiences to create a text in two languages is a rich and venerable one going back at least to the middle ages the self translated bilingual text was commonplace in the multilingual world of medieval and early modern europe frequently bridging latin and the vernaculars while self translation persisted among cultured elites it diminished during the consolidation of the nation states in the long era of nationalistic monolingualism only to resurge in the postcolonial era the bilingual text makes a first step toward providing the fields of translation studies and comparative literature with a comprehensive account of literary self translation in the west it tracks the shifting paradigms of bilingualism across the centuries and addresses the urgent questions that the bilingual text raises for translation theorists today is each part of the bilingual text a separate original creation or is each incomplete without the other is self translation a unique genre can either version be split off into a single language or literary tradition how can two linguistic versions of a text be fitted into standard models of foreign and domestic texts and cultures because such texts defeat standard categories of analysis the bilingual text reverses the usual critical gaze highlighting not dissimilarities but continuities across versions allowing for dissimilarities within orders of correspondence and englobing the literary as well as linguistic and cultural dimensions of the text emphasizing the arcs of historical change in concepts of language and translation that inform each case study the bilingual text examines the perdurance of this phenomenon in western societies and literatures in this book the author aims to explore the impact of 19th century translations of the bible into indigenous languages with a specific focus on the setswana translation the translations have had a profound effect on the religio cultural practices of the indigenous people leading to erosion and alteration of their traditions and identities i argue that it is crucial to consider the translator s intentions and the associated literature such as journals and letters to understand the translation process comprehensively the setswana bible was the first to be translated in africa and tracing the intentions of robert moffat the first translator is imperative to understanding the impact of the translation on the receptor culture the methodology adopted is interdisciplinary drawing from linguistics african languages history english literature cultural studies black studies and theology i analyse the impact of the 1840 gospel of luke in the context of setswana culture in south africa and my findings demonstrate that translations cannot be distinct from the translator to gain a deep understanding of the implications of such texts i adopt a methodology that analyses significant historical literature and primary sources including the records and works of the british and foreign bible society the history of the london missionary society and the journals letters and writings of missionaries such as robert moffat and john campbell
