this book focuses on the impact of technology on taxation and deals with the broad effect of technology on diverse taxation systems it addresses the highly relevant etax issue and argues that while vat may not be the ultimate solution with regard to taxing electronic commerce it can be demonstrated to be the most effective solution to date the book analyzes the application and the effectiveness of traditional income tax principles in contradistinction to vat principles taking into account rapidly ameliorating technology the book next assesses the compatibility between electronic commerce and diverse systems of taxation using case studies of amazon com and second life as well as additional practical examples the book demonstrates the effectiveness of vat in respect of electronic commerce and ameliorating technology in the incalculable and borderless realm of cyberspace

the book is concerned with the main issues that arise for general commodity taxation in the internal market the choice of a new international tax principle and the question of tax rate harmonization the book provides a thorough discussion of these issues and evaluates the choices made by the european community from a welfare theoretic perspective by comparing them to feasible alternatives the discussion integrates a large number of recent theoretical and policy oriented contributions which have so far not been collected and summarized in a single volume special features of the book are that a the analysis combines elements of international trade theory and public finance two economic disciplines which are rarely integrated b a dual general equilibrium framework is used throughout the analysis c a second best setting is consistently employed incorporating relevant policy constraints and integrating conflicting arguments in a single analytical framework d part of the theoretical analysis is supplemented by a computable general equilibrium approach the book shows that well known international trademodels can be extended to model alternative principles for taxing international trade but also international differences in preferences for public goods and different views of government behavior issues which are directly relevant for the discussion of tax rate harmonization but are rarely treated in an analytical way
