wars in lybia syria iraq or afghanistan and the migration waves to europe as a result from all this it also paved the way for a literary embodiment of 9 11 as a literary element which has found a fixed place within migrant writing in the widest sense and muslim writing in particular the fact that writers from east and west incorporated this key date into their novels threw light on the fact that 9 11 did not only function as a global national collective religious or individual trauma it also showed its widespread application for plot character constellations speech and reception of many authors the introduction and employment of 9 11 into contemporary literature slowly but steadily showed its ongoing importance for contemporary writing in 2007 the newspaper usa today declared on a headline that novels about 9 11 can t stack up to non fiction thus throwing light at the multiple use of it as a narrative element in 2015 an editor for the new york times book review suited that the necessity for a 9 11 novel goes on because it reflects a new age of terror the fact that 9 11 is a widely used element of muslim writing shows that it is this group of contemporary novelists who are aware of its manifold use for literature literature is however always a reflection of social political and religious conditions and it is exactly this link which is of special interest here the author of this text therefore first of all gives a general introduction into 9 11 before he tries to reflect in with muslim writing and the post 9 11 novel thus throwing light on the close link between both sides and the literary consequences resulting from this this will be done with the help of mohsin hamid s novel the reluctant fundamentalist 2007 which has by now been accepted as a masterpiece of this new genre scientific essay from the year 2017 in the subject didactics for the subject english literature works johannes gutenberg university mainz language english abstract since 9 11 many muslims struggle with their identity and are exposed to xenophobia violence vicious defamation harassment or displacement in short the notion muslim in relation to that day has become a stigma it is against this background and the post traumatic aftermath of september 11 2001 where many novelists disposing of a muslim background wrote their novels the logical consequence from this was that muslim writing as such has become more complex stressing the standpoints of hearer and teller as elements of distortion interesting though is the fact that some novels dealing with islam and muslim characters have taken up and used the oriental stereotypes where muslims are according to said seen as either oil suppliers or potential terrorists for a long time muslim characters in literature have been connected to this negative image which said also labels as other and spivak as subaltern the hybrid in which many muslim characters are often set is also still equated with the exotic thus ignoring the energy of bhabha s term and its positive realizations in fiction it is therefore one aim of this essay to throw light on this matter and to shortly reflect the present influence of 9 11 on muslim writing scientific essay from the year 2016 in the subject english language and literature studies literature comenius university in bratislava englische literatur language english abstract this paper is about salman rushdie and two of his major works the approach to work on the satanic verses and his latest publication two years eight months and twenty eight nights 2015 tries to critically reflect rushdie s development as a writer within the time span of almost three decades twenty seven years for a writer and his community might be an eternity since the world has tremendously changed since then rushdie himself however in both novels sticks to major themes of his interest among them are the parameters used here identity metamorphosis and religious fanaticism can be found in both novels and it is the focus on these three which will be central here to do so not only helps to reflect major literary topics rushdie is concerned about it also shows the development these matters have taken within rushdie s literary work and the world it reflects in is exactly the historical framework which rushdie uses which helps to understand his literary attempt because he said in an interview with the german magazine stern in 2015 that he understands himself as an author who lives in a certain period of time and who therefore has to write about it the dualistic concept that links the narrative in both novels analysed here must also be seen in this historical framework rushdie sees modern man in a globalized world as homeless hybrid bound to metamorphosis caught between the rational and the irrational yet open for positive options which he can choose provided he uses his freedom so identity metamorphosis religion and fundamentalism are closely connected to personal freedom and it will thus be interesting to see how rushdie s ideas have been worked into both novels the structure of this book is therefore as follows a first part will consist in some sort of background information on rushdie and his position in contemporary english literature a second major part will consist in a short introduction of the postcolonial setting this helps to place rushdie s work in a literary background a next step lies in a closer analysis of chosen parameters such as the use of the hybrid islamic spirituality transcendence identity formation failure and powerlessness the next important step lies in a close interpretation of both works this will be followed by an outlook with a broad purview that includes film music literary fiction and other popular arts the volume is designed for anyone interested in quietly probing how american cultural agents and audiences have acted out and worked through the national trauma of 9 11 back cover
