report of the dominion fishery commission on the fisheries of the province of ontario 1893 issued as vol 26 no 7 supplement the temples and theatres of the ancient greek world are widely known but there is less familiarity with the houses in which people lived in this book lisa nevett provides an accessible introduction to the varied forms of housing found across the greek world between c 1000 and 200 bce many houses adopted a courtyard structure which she sets within a broader chronological geographical and socio economic context the book explores how housing shaped and was shaped by patterns of domestic life at athens and in other urban communities it also points to a rapid change in the scale elaboration and layout of the largest houses this is associated with a shift away from expressing solidarity with peers in the local urban community towards advertising personal status and participation in a network of elite households which stretched across the mediterranean instructors students and general readers will welcome this stimulating volume on the agora traces the evolution of the main public square of the greek polis for the six centuries from the death of alexander the great in 323 bc to the height of the roman empire and the herulian invasion of greece in 267 ad drawing on literary epigraphic and especially archaeological evidence the book takes a comparative approach to consider how the layout and function of agoras in cities throughout greece changed during centuries that witnessed far reaching transformations in culture society and political life the book challenges the popular view of the post classical agora as characterised by decline makes important arguments about how we use evidence to understand ancient public spaces and proposes many new interpretations of individual sites
