the laboratory of progress switzerland in the 19th century tells the improbable story of how a small backward mountainous agricultural country with almost no raw materials became an industrial powerhouse a hub of innovation a touristic mecca and a pioneer in transportation all in the course of a single century that a tiny landlocked country should become a dominant steamship builder for the rest of the world that a country that had never seen a cotton plant should become the world s second largest textile producer that a country with hardly any level terrain should come to boast the world s most highly developed railway network and that a country whose main export was impoverished emigrants should be transformed into one of the world's major financial centres these astonishing developments among many others are explored and explained both through the specific stories of individual innovators and through a prescient analysis of the political economic societal and cultural structures that formed the context in which Switzerland's astonishing transformation took place the book is a compelling read both for professional historians and for general readers with an interest in Switzerland it highlights the roles of transport networks and individual pioneers in industrial and political development
