This book contains transcripts from online Alpha discussions where the epic and narrative structure of Space 1999 is being discussed by comparing episodes with themes, characters, and elements of plot from the Homeric Odyssey and Lewis Carroll's Stories about Alice. The discussion is motivated by questions raised in the scholarly literature and earlier online Alpha debates about how to make sense of Space 1999 from the viewpoint of critical theory. The book has been developed on an idealistic basis. It is sold at the lowest price the publisher was willing to accept. A free e-book version can be downloaded at Lulu.com.

This book pursues a critical perspective on the phenomenon of state violence and its legal unaccountability, focusing on the role of myths, assumptions, and ghosts that surround the meaning of the state and performance of state violence. This book details a fresh perspective on that violence and its legal unaccountability. It asks how does our understanding of the state reflect on the political demands and legal processes of accountability? To pursue this question, the book traces the political and legal aftermath of the police killing of a 14-year-old boy, Berkin Elvan, during the nationwide Gezi protests of the summer of 2013 in Turkey. Countering imaginaries of the state, clash between the state officer's attempt to attribute personal responsibility to Elvan for his own death, and public demands for state accountability, meanwhile, the prolonged legal process ensures that subjects who seek accountability find themselves in a long and exhausting legal battle which dominates their lives and transforms their subjectivity. As the Elvan family continues to wait for accountability and justice, this book suggests that waiting and suspense are key elements of legal performance in trials concerning state violence. As such, and unlike the usual reading of legal violence which focuses on judgement, the book explores how this violence and its implications for an understanding of justice and accountability is bound to the very act of waiting. This critical interdisciplinary study of state violence and its legal handling will appeal to scholars and students from a wider range of disciplines including law, criminology, politics, sociology, and political and legal philosophy.

This book explores the poetics of literary defences of women written by men in late medieval and early modern France. It fills an important lacuna in studies of this polemic in imaginative literature by bridging the gap between Christine de Pizan and a later generation of women writers and male neo-Platonist writers who have recently all received due critical attention. Whereas male-authored defences composed between 1440 and 1538 have previously been dismissed as insincere or mere intellectual games, Swift formulates reading strategies to overcome such critical stumbling blocks and engage with the particular rhetorical and historical contexts of these works.

edited and as yet unedited texts by martin le franc jacques milet pierre michault and jean bouchet catalogues of women allegorical narratives and debate poems are brought together and analysed in detail for the first time in order to explore for example how such works address the misogynistic spectre of jean de meun s roman de la rose the book seeks to understand the contemporary popularity of the case for women la querelle des femmes as literary subject matter it investigates the publication history across this period from manuscript to print of le franc s le champion des dames swift further aims to show how these texts hold interest for modern audiences a nexus of theoretical concerns centred on performance judith butler s gender performativity derrida s re working of austin s linguistic performativity through spectrality and dramatic performance is enlisted to articulate the interpretative engagement expected by querelle writers of their audience the reading strategies proposed foster a nuanced and enriched perspective on the question of a male author s sincerity when writing in defence of women in mapping memory kaitlin m murphy investigates the use of memory as a means of contemporary sociopolitical intervention mapping memory focuses specifically on visual case studies including documentary film photography performance new media and physical places of memory from sites ranging from the southern cone to central america and the u s mexican borderlands murphy develops new frameworks for analyzing how visual culture performs as an embodied agent of memory and witnessing arguing that visuality is inherently performative by analyzing the performative elements or strategies of visual texts such as embodiment reenactment haunting and the performance of material objects and places murphy elucidates how memory is both anchored in and extracted from specific bodies objects and places drawing together diverse theoretical strands murphy originates the theory of memory mapping which tends to the ways in which memory is strategically deployed in order to challenge official narratives that often neglect or designate as transgressive certain memories or experiences ultimately murphy argues memory mapping is a visual strategy to ask and to challenge why certain lives are rendered visible and thus grievable and others not
