since their beginnings in the 1930s hindi films and film songs have dominated indian public culture in india and have also made their presence felt strongly in many global contexts hindi film songs have been described on the one hand as highly standardized and on the other as highly eclectic anna morcom addresses many of the paradoxes eccentricities and myths of not just hindi film songs but also of hindi cinema by analysing film songs in cinematic context while the presence of songs in hindi films is commonly dismissed as purely commercial this book demonstrates that in terms of the production process musical style and commercial life it is most powerfully the parent film that shapes and defines the film songs and their success rather than the other way round while they constitute india's still foremost genre of popular music film songs are also situational dramatic sequences inherently multi media in style and conception this book is uniquely grounded in detailed musical and visual analysis of hindi film songs song sequences and films as well as a wealth of ethnographic material from the hindi film and music industries its findings lead to highly novel ways of viewing hindi film songs their key role in hindi cinema and how this affects their wider life in india and across the globe it will be indispensable to scholars seeking to understand both hindi film songs and hindi cinema it also forms a major contribution to popular music popular culture film music studies and ethnomusicology tackling pertinent issues of cultural production multi media and the cross cultural use of music in hindi cinema the book caters for both music specialists as well as a wider audience for most people film adaptation of literature can be summed up in one sentence the movie wasn't as good as the book this volume undertakes to show the reader that not only is this evaluation not always true but sometimes it is intrinsically unfair movies based on literary works while often billed as adaptations are more correctly termed translations a director and his actors translate the story from the written page into a visual presentation depending on the form of the original text and the chosen method of translation certain inherent difficulties and pitfalls are associated with this change of medium so often our reception of a book based movie has more to do with our expectations and reading of the literature than with the job that the movie production did or did not do avoiding these biases and fairly evaluating any particular literary based film takes an awareness of certain factors written with a formalistic rather than historical approach this work presents a comprehensive guide to literature based films establishing a contextual and theoretical basis to help the reader understand the relationships between such movies and the original texts as well as the reader's own individual responses to these productions to this end it focuses on recognizing and appreciating the inherent difficulties encountered when basing a film on a literary work be it a novel novella play or short story individual chapters deal with the specific issues and difficulties raised by each of these genres providing an overview backed up by case studies of specific film translations films and literary works receiving this treatment include the unbearable lightness of being the manchurian candidate 1962 lady windemere's fan by oscar wilde and shakespeare's henry v interspersed throughout the text are suggestions for activities the film student or buff can use to enhance his or her appreciation and understanding of the films instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here
