the writings of hans magnus enzensberger are a provocative commentary on the post 1945 period in germany poet and essayist of international standing and frequent contributor to political and cultural debates his work has accompanied the development of the federal republic from the 1950s to german unification and after this study makes explicit the links between enzensberger's literary imagination and the cultural and political history of germany and offers a close reading of both enzensberger's poetry and his seminal essays on politics and culture proposing that they be considered as part of a single artistic project the book argues that enzensberger's significance lies in his sustained exploration of the relationship between literary and cultural practices and political democracy in germany it offers detailed analyses of enzensberger's poetry and considers his essays on the consciousness industry and on the constituents of a theory of the media in the context of the political development of the federal republic in the half century following 1945 post world war 2 essays on cinema and television on tourism consumption and migration and on digital media and the future of literature are also considered and analysed enzensberger's work is situated as part of an ongoing critical debate between him and key intellectual figures such as theodor w adorno walter benjamin siegfried kracauer jurgen habermas jean baudrillard and michel foucault germany's unique historical experience of undergoing national unification twice in a little over a century makes it a fascinating object of study in this volume the processes of unification are analysed from the point of view of historians political scientists and literary historians because each event had quite different historical pre conditions the first having been long anticipated and pursued whereas the second took virtually all participants by surprise the processes of adjustment to it have differed in many ways yet in each case the idea of national unity has held sway powerfully as a norm guiding the responses of those involved
