we kill we kill each other we kill god the altar of the death chamber is open the hour of execution upon us is there salvation amidst the horror of the death penalty we must save to get saved we must save our god how will we encounter the execution of god will we save or will we kill in this stunning fusion of biblical interpretation and memoir radical theologian of mercy jeff hood takes us on a unique spiritual journey into the heart of the death penalty the execution of god is a powerful invitation to encounter god in the last place we expect divinity to dwell on the gurney the execution of god will invite you to re examine your belief in the ultimate punishment and consider how the death penalty kills our relationship with god the idea that the divine image of god dwells in those on death row how we cannot be both people of love and people of murder how our cultural obsession with violence harms our spiritual life how to stop the killing and join the work of abolition and restoration vols for 1902 include decisions of the district of columbia court of appeals and various other courts of the district of columbia on may 3 1946 in st martinsville louisiana a seventeen year old black boy was scheduled for execution by electric chair willie francis had been charged with murder his trial had been brief his death sentence never in doubt when the executioners flipped the switch willie screamed and writhed as electricity coursed through his body but willie francis did not die having miraculously survived willie was informed that the state would attempt to execute him a second time within a week the ensuing legal battle went all the way to the supreme court asking could the state electrocute someone twice a gripping narrative about a brutal crime and its shocking aftermath the execution of willie francis offers a heroic and ultimately tragic tale of one man s quest for moral justice in a nation still blinded by race
