by piecing the lives of selected individuals into a grand mosaic pulitzer prize winning historian daniel j boorstin explores the development of artistic innovation over 3 000 years a hugely ambitious chronicle of the arts that boorstin delivers with the scope that made his discoverers a national bestseller even as he tells the stories of such individual creators as homer joyce giotto picasso handel wagner and virginia woolf boorstin assembles them into a grand mosaic of aesthetic and intellectual invention in the process he tells us not only how great art and great architecture and philosophy is created but where it comes from and how it has shaped and mirrored societies from vedic india to the twentieth century united states

darwinian evolution is an imaginative problem that has been passed down to us unsolved it is our most powerful explanation of humanity s place in nature but it is also more cognitively demanding and less emotionally satisfying than any myth from the publication of the origin of species in 1859 evolution has pushed our capacity for storytelling into overdrive sparking fairy tales adventure stories political allegories utopias dystopias social realist novels and existential meditations though this influence on literature has been widely studied it has not been explained psychologically this book argues for the adaptive function of storytelling integrates traditional humanist scholarship with current knowledge about the evolved and adapted human mind and calls for literary scholars to reframe their interpretation of the first authors who responded to darwin the history of philosophy has been studied as if it were a long discussion between participants of differing opinions living in different ages but all in the same world though heraclitus and descartes can no longer respond to new questions or current attacks on their positions nevertheless to the degree that we are all human and all live in the same world such questions and attacks are reasonably fair until recently in the last 50 years the significance of the qualifier to the degree that has changed radically what if it turns out that as far as living in the same world goes we today actually have very little in common with heraclitus or even descartes then we are attempting to carry on discussions with participants who are not our contemporaries and the world they were speculating about is not the same world we today are speculating about then the nature of the discussion the history of philosophy takes on a very different character philosophy and the evolution of consciousness takes talk of alternative conceptual schemes current in philosophy today and applies it in the very place most likely to warrant the change the history of philosophy itself this volume gathers together the work of david rosenthal on the philosophical study of consciousness from the past 20 years and represents his theory of consciousness as higher order thought an introduction draws out the connections between the essays and highlights their implications this book focuses on hegel s philosophy of spirit his major concept and the core of his mature system it does not so much define geist as it does illustrate its many forms and manifestations it is a broad ranging examination of volume iii of hegel s encyclopedia delineating his radical break with previous philosophy and illuminating the heart of his thought several themes recur the meaning and content of recognition and intersubjectivity religion hegel s predecessors and his contemporary successors or contrasts hegel s intentions and his audacity are made both clear and sharp in this work jurgen moltmann and others contend that christian theology and the church face a dual crisis one of relevance and the other of identity despite making this pronouncement nearly forty years ago the church in the west continues to struggle with this crisis several proposals have been espoused from the way of wisdom to the way of ecclesial praxis yet little attention is given in protestant theological discourse to the role god s beauty plays in bringing theology and ethics together by neglecting god s beauty for theological discourse we risk diminishing christian worship witness and wisdom god s beauty in act addresses these issues in part by arguing that the redemptive creative suffering and glorious resurrection of christ are the nexus of god s being beauty and christian living god s beauty understood as the fittingness of the incarnate son s actions in the spirit to the father s will radiates god s glory and draws perceivers into the dramatic movements of god s triune life these movements serve as the patterns that shape the imagination enabling participants to perform their parts creatively and fittingly in god s drama of redemption in doing so human beings flourish as they jettison false identities and realities of their own making that are incommensurate with god s purpose found in christ by the spirit twenty five years ago gerald holton s thematic origins of scientific thought introduced a wide audience to his ideas holton argued that from ancient times to the modern period an astonishing feature of innovative scientific work was its ability to hold simultaneously deep and opposite commitments of the most fundamental sort over the course of holton s career he embraced both the humanities and the sciences given this background it is fitting that the explorations assembled in this volume reflect both individually and collectively holton's dual roots in the opening essay holton sums up his long engagement with einstein and his thematic commitment to unity the next two essays address this concern in historicized form lorraine daston returns the question of the scientific imagination to the enlightenment period when both sciences and art feared imagination daston argues that the split whereby imagination was valued in the arts and loathed in the sciences is a nineteenth century divide james ackerman on leonardo da vinci meshes perfectly with daston's account showing a form of imaginative intervention where it is irrelevant to draw analogies between art and science historians of religion wendy doniger and gregory spinner pursue the imagination into the bedroom with literary theological representations science culture and the imagination also intersect with biologist edward wilson and physicist steven weinberg both tackle the big question of the unity of knowledge and worldviews from a scientific perspective while art historian ernst gombrich does the same from the perspective of art history to emphasize the nitty gritty of scientific practice chemists bretislav fredrich and dudley herschbach provide a remarkable historical tour at the boundary of chemistry and physics in the concluding essay historian of education patricia albjerg graham addresses pedagogy head on in these various reflections on science art literature philosophy and education this volume gives us a view in common a deep and abiding respect for gerald holton's contribution to our understanding of science in culture peter galison is mallinckrodt professor of history of science and of physics at harvard university stephen r graubard is editor of the american academy of arts and sciences and its journal daedalus and professor of history emeritus at brown university everett mendelsohn is director of the history of science program at harvard university
